From the Director:

I want to say thanks to Mike Spencer, Jim Boyd, and Mark Weaver for their service to the Chapter last year.

Congratulations to all members agreeing to take a position on the board. I am counting on all HOG members for their support. Together we can all enjoy the fellowship and friendship that the HOG Chapter brings to us.

It's also that time of year to renew your membership. Dues are $24.00 for members and $12.00 for associate members.

I'd like to wish all HOG member Fathers a Happy Father's Day.

Tom

The Chaplain's Corner

Butcher and the Dog

A butcher noticed a dog in his shop. He chased him away, but the dog came back. He then noticed the dog had an envelope in his mouth. The butcher took a piece of paper from the envelope and read, "May I please have two pounds of ground beef and six chicken legs?"

The butcher looked inside the envelope, and sure enough, there was the money to cover the order. So the butcher took the money, put the order in the bag, and gave the bag to the dog, which picked it up in his mouth.

The butcher was curious, and since it was closing time, he decided to follow the dog.

The dog walked down the street, came to a crosswalk, put the bag down, and jumped up and pressed the crossing button. When the light changed, he picked up the bag and crossed the street.

Next, the dog came to a bus station. He checked the timetable, and then sat down to wait for the bus. The butcher was awestruck.

When the next bus arrived, the dog looked at the number, then went back to sit down. Another bus came, and again the dog went to look at the number. This time it was the right bus, so he climbed on. The butcher followed in amazement.

After a few miles, the dog got up and moved to the front of the bus. When it stopped, the dog got off. The butcher followed the dog down the road until they reached a green house. The dog pushed the gate open, walked up the path, and dropped the bag on the step. He then walked backward a few steps, got a running start, and threw himself against the door. It didn't open. He went back down the path, started running, and threw himself against the door again.

When the door didn't open, the dog walked around the side of the house and banged his head on a window. He then walked back to the door and sat down.

Just then, a man opened the door and started yelling at the dog. The butcher, who had been speechless, ran up to the man and shouted, "What are you doing? This dog is a genius!"

The man looked at the butcher and said, "A genius? This is the third time this week he's forgotten his key!"

Go on ... admit it ... you had no idea where this was going and you read the whole thing anyway! So smile today ...See you in the wind.
